KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Tender early or late. Mid-morning tenders from a full ship can queue 20–30 min; head ashore at opening or after the rush, and return at least 1 hr before all-aboard.
- Book Neptune's Grotto first. Boat trips sell out quickly on busy ship days — buy a ticket at the harbour kiosk as soon as you step ashore. Skip it if weather is rough; the cave is closed in strong swells.
- Lunch budget tip. Aragosta alla Catalana is pricey (€30–50 per portion) but worth it once. Set-menu lunches (€15–20) in the old town are an excellent alternative.
- Red coral is the souvenir. Alghero is Italy's red-coral capital. Buy from reputable old-town jewellers — avoid cheap street stalls which often sell dyed fakes.
- Summer heat. July–August calls can top 35 °C. The old-town lanes are shaded but beaches are exposed — bring water and sunscreen.
- Catalan curiosity. Alghero's dialect is an endangered branch of Catalan; street signs are bilingual Italian/Algherese. Locals are proud of it — a simple gràcies (Catalan 'thank you') gets a warm reaction.
