

Ascension Island, South Atlantic, British Overseas Territory

A remote volcanic outpost in the middle of the South Atlantic, Ascension Island offers something genuinely rare: nesting green turtles, a cloud-capped mountain improbably lush with introduced trees, and a frontier-town feel that most cruisers never experience.

- Sooty Tern Colony Visit — Ascension is a globally important seabird breeding site.
- Georgetown Heritage Walk — Wander past St.
- Comfortless Cove & Bonetta Cemetery — A scenic volcanic bay with clear water for swimming and snorkelling, combined with a poignant 19th-century cemetery for sailors who died of disease...

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

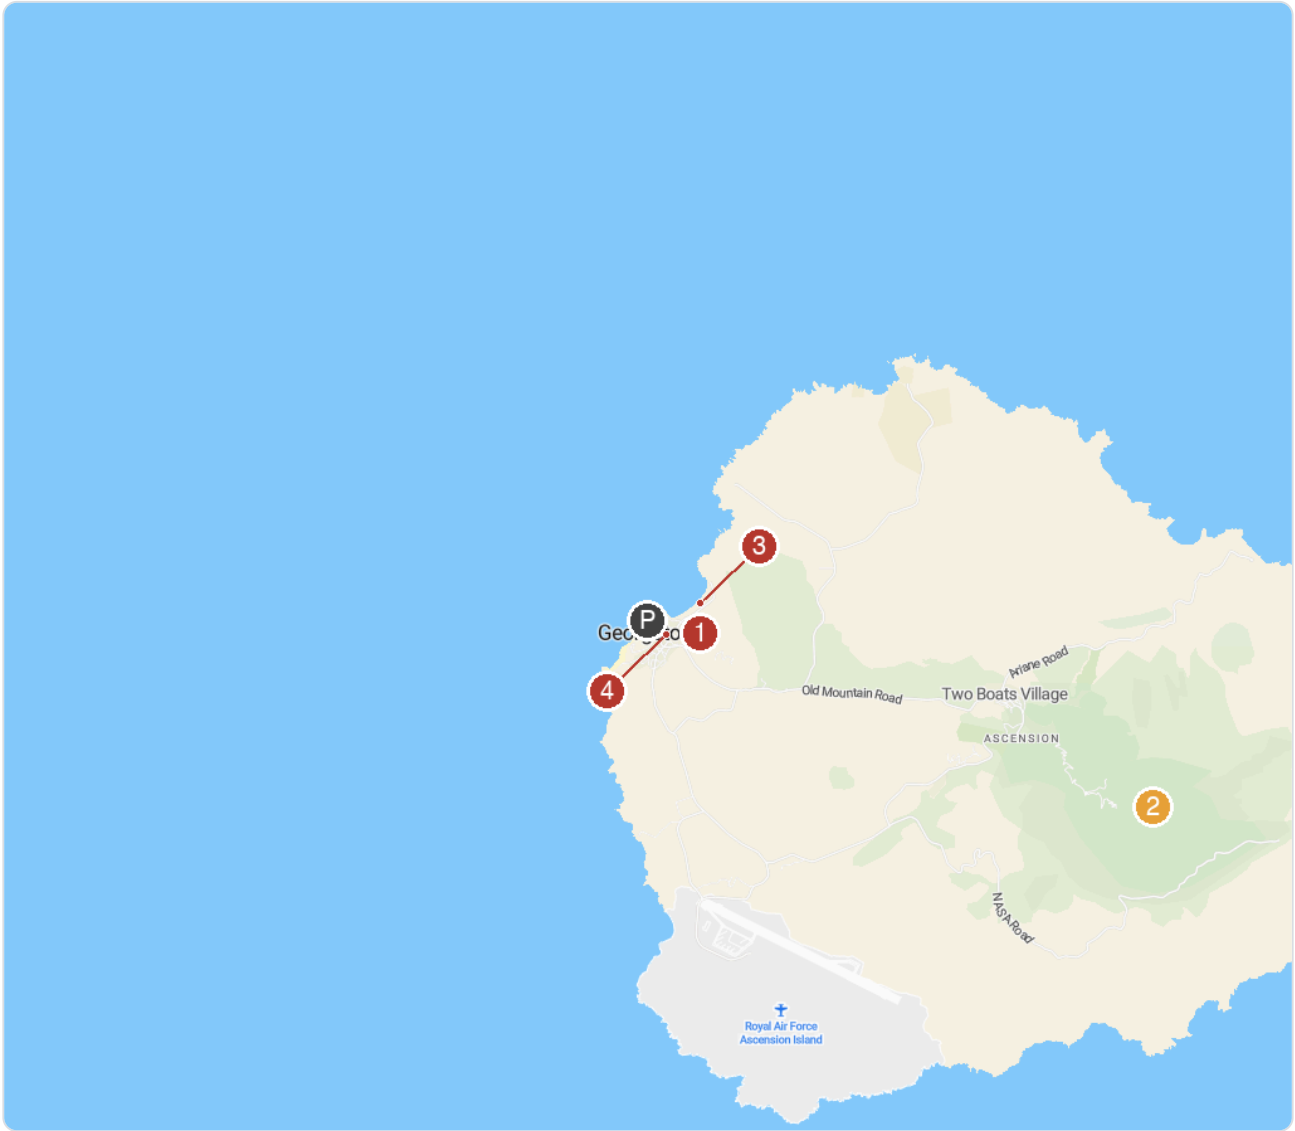

- Cash only, GBP preferred. No ATMs on the island. Bring British Pounds — Saint Helena Pounds are also used but worthless once you leave. The Bank of St Helena can do cash advances (5% fee).
- Tendering can cancel. Atlantic swell at Georgetown pier can be severe. Your call may be replaced by a scenic sail-around — check ship announcements carefully.
- Turtle season runs Dec–Jun. If you're visiting in this window, pre-arrange a Conservation Office turtle tour — it's one of the most remarkable wildlife experiences in the Atlantic.
- Hitchhiking is normal. Georgetown is walkable but outlying sites (Green Mountain, beaches) need transport. Car hire from the Obsidian Hotel or stick your thumb out — locals expect it.
- Book meals in advance. The Obsidian Hotel (main restaurant) and Two Boats Club require advance notice. The Volcano Club snack bar is more casual.
- Limited connectivity. Ascension Island Mobile (AIM) launched in 2026, but coverage is basic and roaming is limited — don't count on your phone working. Internet is available but slow and expensive.
