TOP THINGS TO DO

- Po Delta Cycling Tour — Pedal along the Canalbianco and Po riverbanks through rice fields and wetlands.
- Torre Morosini & Villa Morosini, Polesella — A 22-metre crenellated tower — all that survives of the late-16th-century Villa Morosini, attributed to Vincenzo Scamozzi (of the Palladian school)...
- Rovigo City Half-Day — The provincial capital 8 km north has a proper piazza, the Pinacoteca dell'Accademia dei Concordi art gallery (with works by Giovanni Bellini), the...
- Po Delta Boat Tour — From nearby Taglio di Po or Porto Tolle, small-boat tours wind through the Po Delta's labyrinthine channels and lagoon habitats — home to flamingos...

BEST WALKS

- Bosaro Town Stroll 30 min · Easy · ~1 km — A short loop through the town centre takes in the Church of San Sebastiano Martire, the historic Town Hall, and the Canalbianco embankment with its views across the flat...
- Canalbianco Towpath Ride 1–2 hrs · Easy · 8–15 km · Bike — The flat towpath running along the Canalbianco is ideal for cyclists of all levels.

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Very limited services in town. Bosaro has a few trattorias but no ATM or pharmacy. Bring cash and anything you need before arrival; Rovigo has full facilities.
- Bring or hire a bike. Most river cruise operators organise bicycles onboard — confirm in advance. The flat terrain makes cycling ideal for all ages.
- Try Po Delta rice. The Polesine is famed for its PGI-certified rice; risotto with local ingredients (frog, eel, or freshwater fish) is the signature dish in local trattorias.
- Fog and heat. Summers (June–Aug) are hot and humid; winters bring thick Po Valley fog. Spring and autumn offer the best cycling conditions.
- Mosquito season. The Po Delta's wetlands mean mosquitoes are active from May through September. Bring repellent if you plan to cycle or walk near the water.
- Remote feel, easy access. Despite the quiet countryside setting, Rovigo's rail station (8 km away) connects directly to Venice (40 min) and Bologna (50 min) for pre- or post-cruise extensions.
