KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Watch the Newfoundland time zone. NST is UTC–3:30 — a 30-minute offset that surprises many cruisers. Confirm your ship's posted time matches local clocks before touring independently.
- Layer up no matter the forecast. Western Newfoundland can be sunny at 9 AM and cold and rainy by noon. Pack a windproof, waterproof jacket even if the sky looks clear at the dock.
- Use the free shuttle for Crow Hill. Walking to Captain Cook's viewpoint is very steep — most visitors take a taxi up and walk the scenic downhill route back to town.
- Rent a car? Watch for moose. Newfoundland has one of North America's highest moose densities. Drive slowly at dawn and dusk — collisions are common and dangerous.
- Get Screeched In. Kiss the cod, sip the Screech rum, and earn your honorary Newfoundlander certificate. Touristy? Yes. Worth it? Absolutely — and the locals love watching it happen.
- Cards accepted everywhere. Canadian dollars are the currency; credit and debit cards work at shops, restaurants, and tour operators. No need to pre-source CAD.
