TOP THINGS TO DO

- Lista Lighthouse Climb — The 34-metre stone lighthouse at Lista Fyr has guided ships since 1836.
 - Nordberg Fort (WWII Coastal Artillery) — One of Norway's best-preserved German coastal fortifications from WWII.
 - Vanse & 'Little America' — Eight kilometres from port, the village of Vanse has a unique link to Brooklyn — early-to-mid 20th-century
- emigrants returned with American culture...

 - Lista Beach Day — The Lista peninsula holds some of Southern Norway's finest sandy beaches.
 - Loshavn Village Walk — A beautifully preserved old port village ~4 km south of Farsund, with 18th-century wooden houses among the finest-preserved on Norway's southern coast.

BEST WALKS

- Harbour & White-House Town Walk 1.5 km · 30 min · Easy — From the pier, stroll along Bryggeslengen (the waterfront promenade) into Torvet (town square).
- Gervoll Woods & Suspension Bridge 3 km · 45 min · Easy — A 20-minute walk from the pier leads to Gervollskogen, a peaceful park with forest paths, a small suspension bridge, and lakeside trails.

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Go cashless. Norway is card-only — Visa and Mastercard work in every café, bus, and tourist shop. You won't need Krone in your pocket.
- Rent an e-bike early. The tourist desk at the pier rents e-bikes. The Lista peninsula is flat and ideal for cycling to beaches and the lighthouse — grab one as soon as you disembark.
- Buy shrimp off the boat. Look for small fishing vessels docked at the quay selling fresh reker (shrimp). Eat them on the pier with bread and mayo — a proper local lunch.
- Dress for wind. Southern Norway's flat Lista plains channel strong North Sea winds even on sunny summer days. A windproof layer is worth packing no matter what the forecast says.
- Shops close Sundays. Most Norwegian retail shops are closed on Sundays, though souvenir shops and some cafés may open when a cruise ship is in port.
- Don't skip Vanse. The 'Little America' village 8 km away is genuinely charming and unlike anything else in Norway. Bus 230 runs from Farsund centre, or share a taxi with fellow passengers.
