KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Go cashless: Norway is virtually card-only. You can pay for ferries, cafés, museums, and even small tipping with Visa or Mastercard — no NOK cash needed.
- Check ferry times carefully: Express boats to Kinn and Svanøy run on strict schedules. Confirm the last boat back before you board, and allow 30 min buffer before all-aboard.
- Dress for the North Sea: Florø is exposed — sunshine and rain can alternate within an hour. A windproof, waterproof layer is essential even on warm days.
- Try Kinn beer: Vesle Kinn pub on Strandgata is 5 minutes from the ship. Their Vestkyst IPA and Pilsner are local legends — don't skip it.
- Sundays can be quiet: Retail shops close on Sundays by law, but museums, cafés, and the brewery pub stay open when a cruise ship is in port.
- Eat at Hjørnevikbua: This restored harbour warehouse right next to the pier is the best spot for traditional Norwegian fish soup (fiskesuppe) and local salmon.
