KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Carry cash (euros). Germany remains cash-heavy — fish shacks, beach chair rentals, and public toilets (€0.50–1.00) don't accept cards.
- Rent a Strandkorb. These hooded wicker beach chairs are iconic to the Baltic coast. About €12–15/day — worth it for the wind shelter and authentic experience.
- Eat a Fischbrötchen. The wooden fish shacks near the pier sell the real Baltic deal — matjes herring, smoked salmon, or fried fish on a crusty roll. Best cheap eat on the island.
- Cross into Poland freely. Świnoujście is about 8 km away with no border controls. The Polish side has cheaper restaurants and a different market feel — easy side trip by bike, bus, or taxi.
- Germany's sunniest island. Usedom averages 1,900+ sunshine hours a year — but Baltic wind can make it feel cooler than it looks. Bring a light jacket even in summer.
- Try Sanddorn. Sea buckthorn — a bright orange dune berry — appears in everything: ice cream, cake, tea, and schnapps. A uniquely Baltic flavour worth seeking out.
