

Makkovik, Labrador, Canada

One of North America's most remote cruise calls, Makkovik is a living Inuit community in Nunatsiavut where Moravian history, handcrafted Labradorite jewelry, and iceberg-studded boardwalks await the adventurous traveller.

-  Pier or tender depending on ship
-  Typical call: 4–6 hrs
-  Canadian Dollar (CAD)
-  English / Inuktitut
-  Dry community (no alcohol)

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Dry community: Makkovik prohibits alcohol. Do not bring it ashore.
- Layer up: Even in summer, subarctic wind off the Labrador Sea can be biting. Waterproof, windproof outer layers are essential.
- Iceberg season: June and early July typically offer the best iceberg sightings from the boardwalks
