TOP THINGS TO DO

- Upernavik Icefjord Zodiac Cruise — Glide among some of the world's largest icebergs calved from the glaciers feeding the Upernavik Icefjord just north of town.
- Upernavik Museum (Old Town) — The world's northernmost open-air museum occupies the original 1772 colonial quarter.
- Old Church & Cemetery Walk — The black-and-white wooden church dating to 1859 stands in the historic quarter.
- Whale & Wildlife Boat Tour — Local boat operators run trips through the Upernavik Archipelago, where narwhals, beluga whales, seals, and seabirds are regularly spotted.
- Sea Kayaking Among Icebergs — Paddle Greenland's waters as the Inuit have for centuries.

BEST WALKS

- Town & Viewpoint Loop 2–3 km · 1–1.5 hrs · Moderate (steep sections) — From the boat harbour walk uphill through the colourful town past the Old Church to the Upernavik Museum, then continue up to the cemetery ridge for panoramic icebergs...

KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

- Bring Danish Krone cash. The museum and craft sellers often prefer DKK. There is one ATM (at the Pilersuisoq supermarket) but it can run out of cash when cruise ships are in port — draw money on the ship if possible.
- Layer up, even in summer. July–August temperatures hover around 5–10 °C (41–50 °F) with fierce wind chill. Bring a windproof and waterproof outer layer, warm hat, and gloves.
- Arctic mosquitoes are real. In July and August, when the wind drops, they can be fierce. Pack high-DEET repellent and consider a head net.
- Do not approach the sled dogs. Working dog teams are staked around the town outskirts. They are not pets and can be aggressive — admire from a distance.
- Hotel Upernavik is your only café. The hotel restaurant serves coffee, pastries, and simple hot meals. The Pilersuisoq supermarket is great for Danish pastries, rye bread, and local snacks like dried fish.
- Expect a digital detox. Mobile roaming in Greenland is expensive and coverage is patchy. Wi-Fi is scarce. Embrace being offline for the day.
